

Bio for Dr Paul Bannister

Managing Director at Exergy Australia

Dr Paul Bannister is Managing Director of Exergy Australia Pty Ltd, one of Australia's leading energy efficiency consultancies. Paul has extensive experience in the assessment of energy efficiency in commercial buildings, both in new design and in operation. He is also the key technical developer of the NABERS Energy and Water rating systems.

Paul has a passion for the advancement of energy efficiency in commercial buildings, and having worked with literally hundreds of buildings at all stages of their life, has considerable insight into how buildings work – or don't, as the case may be. One of Paul's particular specialities is the optimisation of building controls, which he has been able to use to create significant improvements in building performance on a wide range of sites.

Paul is a well known speaker on energy efficiency issues both nationally and internationally, having presented at numerous conferences within Australia and overseas. He has published well over 80 papers on energy efficiency related issues.
